Embracing the Crone: A Gathering of Wisdom & Power

Date and Time: Friday, March 7 7:00 pm - 8:30 pm

Address: Mystic Avenue, 18 King St E, Colborne

Throughout history, the feminine journey has been described through the sacred cycle of Maiden, Mother, and Crone—each phase carrying its own wisdom and gifts.

- The Maiden is youth, discovery, and new beginnings. She embodies curiosity, independence, and potential.
- The Mother is creation, nurturing, and growth—whether through raising children, birthing projects, or tending to the world with love and care.
- The Crone is wisdom, transformation, and deep inner knowing. She is the elder, the seer, the woman who has walked through life's challenges and emerged with clarity and strength.

This workshop is a celebration of the Crone, honouring the unique power and wisdom that comes with midlife and beyond. As we step into this phase, we are invited to embrace our intuition, release old roles, and claim the sovereignty of our authentic selves. The Crone is not just about aging—she is about living with depth, truth, and power.

Who is this for?

This gathering is for women who are stepping into or already embodying the Crone phase—whether through menopause, aging, or simply a shift into a deeper wisdom. It is a space to honour the transitions of midlife and be yond, to reflect on the gifts of experience, and to claim the power of the Wise Woman within.

While the Crone's wisdom is universal, this space is specifically held for women in midlife and later years who wish to explore, embrace, and celebrate this phase of life. If you are drawn to this transition, seeking guidance, or ready to stand fully in your truth, you are welcome here.

What to Expect:

- Explore the Crone's meaning through myth and storytelling
- Reflect on the gifts of aging, wisdom, and personal transformation
- Engage in a guided meditation to connect with your inner Crone
- Participate in ritual and creative expression
- Share in a supportive, sacred space with other Wise Women

Come as you are—whether you are embracing, resisting, or simply curious about this phase. This is a space for reverence, renewal, and deep connection with the Wise Woman within.

Pete Doherty Northumberland

Date and Time: Saturday, March 8 12:00 pm - 4:00 pm

Address: Art Gallery of Northumberland

In Northumberland, boxing photographer Pete Doherty reassembles the fragments of a life suddenly altered by illness and loss. After the death of both his parents—his father from a stroke and, within a year, his mother from breast cancer—he realized an invisible line had been drawn that represented before and after; old life, new life; the known world and the unknown world. The only way for him to make sense of this new existence was by reconstructing the pieces of his life, bringing all the aspects of his community together as a whole. Renowned for his photographs of boxing, Doherty used his access as a participant to photograph fellow boxers in various stages of their amateur and professional careers. Offering an insider's perspective, his intimate portraits and action shots, made during training sessions and bouts, create an inclusive view of that sport. Doherty has always used a very linear, more traditional approach in sequencing his photographs in his monograph book and solo exhibitions. This project, Northumberland, is a distinctly different series, almost like chapters or sentences in a book, that together create a comprehensive, poetic, and non-linear form. With this series, he, in some way, continues a conversation with his parents, as he tries to understand how to photograph grief and loss, how to not romanticize, exploit or trivialize it. In bringing these seemingly disparate (in some cases) images together, he creates an aesthetic that invokes questions, and gestures or realignment (past/present/future) and creates a comprehensive but challenging body of work that depicts being alive in a world where loved ones are suddenly gone. His colour and B&W photographs illustrate the spaces we inhabit and enliven personal artifacts that serve to illustrate lives lived. His approach enables viewers time to reflect on their personal experiences with aging, eldercare, and grief. Pete Doherty Northumberland

Date and Time: Wednesday, March 12 10:00 am - 4:00 pm

Address: Art Gallery of Northumberland

In Northumberland, boxing photographer Pete Doherty reassembles the fragments of a life suddenly altered by illness and loss. After the death of both his parents—his father from a stroke and, within a year, his mother from breast cancer—he realized an invisible line had been drawn that represented before and after; old life, new life; the known world and the unknown world. The only way for him to make sense of this new existence was by reconstructing the pieces of his life, bringing all the aspects of his community together as a whole. Renowned for his photographs of boxing, Doherty used his access as a participant to photograph fellow boxers in various stages of their amateur and professional careers. Offering an insider's perspective, his intimate portraits and action shots, made during training sessions and bouts, create an inclusive view of that sport. Doherty has always used a very linear, more traditional approach in sequencing his photographs in his monograph book and solo exhibitions. This project, Northumberland, is a distinctly different series, almost like chapters or sentences in a book, that together create a comprehensive, poetic, and non-linear form. With this series, he, in some way, continues a conversation with his parents, as he tries to understand how to photograph grief and loss, how to not romanticize, exploit or trivialize it. In bringing these seemingly disparate (in some cases) images together, he creates an aesthetic that invokes questions, and gestures or realignment (past/present/future) and creates a comprehensive but challenging body of work that depicts being alive in a world where loved ones are suddenly gone. His colour and B&W photographs illustrate the spaces we inhabit and enliven personal artifacts that serve to illustrate lives lived. His approach enables viewers time to reflect on their personal experiences with aging, eldercare, and grief. Gallery Hours Tuesday - Friday 10 am to 4 pm Saturday - 12 pm to 4 pm Sunday, Monday - Closed

Learn Linocut

Date and Time: Wednesday, March 12 12:00 pm - 4:30 pm

Address: Colborne Art Gallery, 51 King St E, Colborne

CAG is pleased to present our first of a series of workshops for the 2025 season. Treat yourself to a new or progressive learning experience in linocut block printing.

Susan Munderich, the Juror's Choice recipient of CAG's 2024 juried show with her block print, "Jumping Mouse", will be the instructor for the afternoon workshop. She explains: "Linocut is a type of relief printing that involves carving away the negative areas in a design, applying ink to the raised areas of the block, and burnishing paper placed over the block to pull a print. It can also be called block printing."

Susan is both an accomplished artist in printmaking and a public school teacher who enjoys using her teaching skills to detail her printmaking process. Be prepared for Susan's enthusiasm and your own personal accomplishment!

Please come prepared with sketches for a simple 4"x6" composition - details will be emailed after registration. This will be the perfect size to print your own 5"x7" greeting cards.

Space is limited to 12 participants and a minimum of 6 participants is required for the workshop to run.

Heeding this advice, Peter has risen to prominence as one of the leading tribute artists to the legendary rock musician. From 2008 to 2012, Peter refined his performances in Cyprus and has since established himself in the UK and Europe as a highly sought-after artist, recognized for his vocal and visual resemblance to Meat Loaf. In addition to his successful solo career, he has portrayed Meat Loaf in the acclaimed theatrical production "ROCK AND ROLL DREAMS COME TRUE." Over the past seven years, he has performed with this live theatre show and, more recently, with his own band, 'All Revved Up.' Peter is celebrated for the passion and emotion he infuses into his performances, authentically conveying the powerful narratives embedded in the lyrics by Jim Steinman.

Pete Doherty Northumberland

Date and Time: Tuesday, March 18 10:00 am - 4:00 pm

Address: Art Gallery of Northumberland

In Northumberland, boxing photographer Pete Doherty reassembles the fragments of a life suddenly altered by illness and loss. After the death of both his parents—his father from a stroke and, within a year, his mother from breast cancer—he realized an invisible line had been drawn that represented before and after; old life, new life; the known world and the unknown world. The only way for him to make sense of this new existence was by reconstructing the pieces of his life, bringing all the aspects of his community together as a whole. Renowned for his photographs of boxing, Doherty used his access as a participant to photograph fellow boxers in various stages of their amateur and professional careers. Offering an insider's perspective, his intimate portraits and action shots, made during training sessions and bouts, create an inclusive view of that sport. Doherty has always used a very linear, more traditional approach in sequencing his photographs in his monograph book and solo exhibitions. This project, Northumberland, is a distinctly different series, almost like chapters or sentences in a book, that together create a comprehensive, poetic, and non-linear form. With this series, he, in some way, continues a conversation with his parents, as he tries to understand how to photograph grief and loss, how to not romanticize, exploit or trivialize it. In bringing these seemingly disparate (in some cases) images together, he creates an aesthetic that invokes questions, and gestures or realignment (past/present/future) and creates a comprehensive but challenging body of work that depicts being alive in a world where loved ones are suddenly gone. His colour and B&W photographs illustrate the spaces we inhabit and enliven personal artifacts that serve to illustrate lives lived. His approach enables viewers time to reflect on their personal experiences with aging, eldercare, and grief. Gallery Hours Tuesday - Friday 10 am to 4 pm Saturday - 12 pm to 4 pm Sunday, Monday - Closed

Pete Doherty Northumberland

Date and Time: Tuesday, March 25 10:00 am - 4:00 pm

Address: Art Gallery of Northumberland

In Northumberland, boxing photographer Pete Doherty reassembles the fragments of a life suddenly altered by illness and loss. After the death of both his parents—his father from a stroke and, within a year, his mother from breast cancer—he realized an invisible line had been drawn that represented before and after; old life, new life; the known world and the unknown world. The only way for him to make sense of this new existence was by reconstructing the pieces of his life, bringing all the aspects of his community together as a whole. Renowned for his photographs of boxing, Doherty used his access as a participant to photograph fellow boxers in various stages of their amateur and professional careers. Offering an insider's perspective, his intimate portraits and action shots, made during training sessions and bouts, create a inclusive view of that sport. Doherty has always used a very linear, more traditional approach in sequencing his photographs in his monograph book and solo exhibitions. This project, Northumberland, is a distinctly different series, almost like chapters or sentences in a book, that together create a comprehensive, poetic, and non-linear form. With this series, he, in some way, continues a conversation with his parents, as he tries to understand how to photograph grief and loss, how to not romanticize, exploit or trivialize it. In bringing these seemingly disparate (in some cases) images together, he creates an aesthetic that invokes questions, and gestures or realignment (past/present/future) and creates a comprehensive but challenging body of work that depicts being alive in a world where loved ones are suddenly gone. His colour and B&W photographs illustrate the spaces we inhabit and enliven personal artifacts that serve to illustrate lives lived. His approach enables viewers time to reflect on their personal experiences with aging, eldercare, and grief. Gallery Hours Tuesday - Friday 10 am to 4 pm Saturday - 12 pm to 4 pm Sunday, Monday - Closed

Greg McHarg The Shape of Space

Date and Time: Saturday, March 29 12:00 pm - 4:00 pm

Address: Art Gallery of Northumberland, Victoria Hall, West Wing, Third Floor - 55 King St. W., Cobourg, ON K9A 2M2

The Shape of Space explores Greg McHarg's innovative use of cutouts and repetition, transforming cardboard into a study of form, void, and rhythm. Through precise cuts and deliberate patterns, McHarg redefines the relationship between material and absence, allowing space itself to take shape within his compositions. The interplay of light and shadow, solid and void, gives each piece a dynamic presence, shifting as the viewer moves. The corrugated layers of cardboard add texture and depth, emphasizing the contrast between structure and fragility. By using an everyday material, McHarg elevates the ordinary, inviting contemplation on how space is both defined and disrupted. In The Shape of Space, the repetition of forms creates a visual cadence, echoing natural rhythms and architectural patterns. This exhibition challenges viewers to consider not just what is present, but what is missing—and how the negative space carved away is just as vital as the material that remains. Gallery Hours Tuesday to Friday: 10 am - 4 pm Saturday - 12 pm to 4 pm Sunday, Monday - Closed
